

KING HAS FLED

From Lisbon and a Republic Has Been Proclaimed by Rebels

MANY PEOPLE KILLED

By the Fierce Fighting Which Took Place in the Streets of the City—Portugal Now in the Hands of the Democrats, Who Have Set Up a Provisional Government.

The people of Portugal has declared for a Republic, and thus democracy marches onward. Theophile Braga, republican leader, is the new president. The Portuguese Marcellaise is the new national anthem and the emblem of monarchy on the palace has been replaced by the flag of red and green, the colors of the republican party.

That there was fierce fighting in the streets of Lisbon is evident or dispatches from all quarters. Disorders at Oporto have been repressed by the troops, many regiments of which are said to be loyal to the king.

King Manuel, the queen mother and the queen dowager have taken refuge in the palace at Mafra, a short distance out of Lisbon.

Lisbon, the capital, was completely in the hands of the rebels a few hours after the revolution was proclaimed. Having formed a provisional government with Theophile Braga as president. A new national flag of red and green is flying over all the public buildings, including the town hall.

The city of Lisbon has been considerably damaged by the bombardment of the insurgent warships. The buildings occupied by the ministers around Praça do Commercio and the Necessidades palace were made the particular targets of the shells from the warships and today shows the shells from the effects by broken walls and turrets. The tower of the church attached to the palace was demolished.

All through the night artillery and rifle fire was incessant and towards dawn it increased in intensity. At 11 o'clock last night insurgents, encamped on the Heights of Avenida da Liberdade, tried to force their way to the center of the city but were driven back by the royal troops.

As the latter passed the barracks of the first artillery they discovered that it was in the hands of the rebel civilians. They charged upon the civilians and dislodged them with considerable loss to the rebels.

"The night firing was carried on in complete darkness, the electric lights having failed. The insurgents were led by the retired admiral, Carlos Reis. Their forces were greatly augmented by desertions from among the monarchists and they succeeded eventually in getting control of the city.

The inhabitants are parading the streets, most of them with rifles in their hands, singing the Portuguese "Marsellaise," which has now become the national anthem. Red Cross ambulances, parties of police and men from the fire brigade are controlling the streets and removing the dead and wounded.

The revolutionists raided all buildings which flew the old flag and tore down the emblems of the monarchy. The warships greeted the hoisting of the republican flag with salvos of artillery.

Eusebio Leao, the republican leader, made a speech from the balcony of the town hall, saying that he entrusted the policing of the city and the maintenance of order to the care of the citizens.

"Respect all persons and private property," he exclaimed, "and the life of all persons, whoever they may be. The republic is generous and magnanimous."

The huge crowd that had gathered around the buildings cheered the speaker frantically. Notwithstanding the thrilling events of the past two days, the people are now showing composure, and it seems likely that order in the city of Lisbon will be maintained. It is rumored that Gen. Gorjias, who committed suicide when he saw that the troops deserted the king and went over to the rebels. Many ships of the navy did the same thing leaving the king with no force to preserve order in Lisbon.

A special dispatch from Lisbon says that the fighting in that city lasted 40 hours, both parties showing extraordinary courage. There were many casualties before the monarchists finally joined the winning side.

The correspondent says the enthusiasm of the people was unbounded. The citizens are fraternizing with the troops. Notwithstanding that there is no organized police force, the population is orderly.

The Portuguese newspapers state the initiative of the revolutionary movement in Lisbon was taken by the sixteenth regiment of infantry, aided by a regiment of artillery, blue jackets and 5,000 armed civilians. The police were overcome without difficulty. The total of those killed in the fighting exceeds 200, while hundreds were wounded.

Twenty persons were wounded in clashes at Oporto.

Sir Villiers, British minister at Lisbon, telegraphed the foreign office early Thursday that the Republic revolution apparently had been accomplished and there seemed to be no reason to fear further violence. The royal family made their escape, and are now under the British protection at Gibraltar.

CANT GO TEDDY

PROMINENT REPUBLICAN COMES OUT AGAINST HIM.

Has Resigned from the New York Club and Declares His Purpose to Vote for Him.

In his letter resigning from the Republican Club of New York Chas. H. Young says: "I do not feel I would be honest with myself in continuing a member of a club which supports candidates and a ticket that I cannot support. I still call myself a Republican. I want to see Taft re-elected in 1912. I don't want to vote for Stimson, because it will be Roosevelt and not Taft in 1912 if Stimson gets in."

The New York World says while the Republican Club of New York was held Wednesday of the committee which notified Henry L. Stimson that he had been nominated as the Republican standard bearer, its president during 1907-1908, Charles H. Young, a Republican of 29 years' loyalty to his party, was voluntarily absent and deposing a political situation which compelled him to leave his party and his club.

"I have nothing personally against Mr. Stimson," said Mr. Young to The World reporter. "I have served with him on committees in the Bar Association. I would not support the ticket, no matter who might be nominated."

"I am against the Republican ticket for two reasons. The first and most important is that I believe it is time that the Republicans be turned out of office in this State. There should be a house cleaning and a general one."

"When one contemplates the rascality and corruption laid bare at Albany it is the duty of every citizen who is without personal political interest to vote to clean out the gang which thrived on rascality. I believe the people of this State want a more economical administration of their affairs. They cannot expect it from the Republicans."

"Secondly, I am against the ticket because it is Mr. Roosevelt's ticket. I believe that Roosevelt should be re-elected President in 1912, and I do not see how we will ever get him out of the Presidency. The time has come when a man must forget his party allegiance and remember his country. Roosevelt is a positive menace to our Government and its sacred institutions."

Mr. Young paused and grinned when he discovered his visitors eyes on a framed photograph of Mr. Roosevelt as he looked when he left the Governor's office.

"Oh, I used to admire him," said Mr. Young. "That is where a lot of us went wrong. He has turned out to be a man to a great deal to his own personal advancement. The only difference between me and a lot of fellows who think as I do is that I have the courage of my convictions."

"My one wish is that the Hearst people will tie up with Mr. Roosevelt and his ticket. I would like the voters to wipe them all out at one time."

"Let all the radicals go together. I am opposed to any kind of a primary idea, yet I am going to support the Democratic ticket. The Democrats were honest enough to accept an honest declaration for a direct primary, while Mr. Roosevelt dictated a party platform declaration for primaries which will fool nobody."

Mr. Young's resignation, from the Republican Club astounded the members and they discussed little else.

SOUNDS NOTE OF ALARM.

Continuation of the Republican Party Means Ruin.

Asserting that Republican rule in this country is tending rapidly toward the disintegration of the union, Prof. D. Cady Eaton of Yale, in a letter addressed to the Democratic party, declares: "A new secession, not handicapped this time by slavery may be the only way for the people to regain their liberties and terminate the rule of graft."

He says the people are "tired of centralization, imperialism, world power, colonization and everything opposed to the principal declared at the beginning of the republic."

He says that though the establishment of an empire in this country may not be conceivable, a disruption of the union into independent republics is "conceivable, possible and to be feared if there is not a great change at Washington."

Served Him Right.

Earl Burgess, arrested in Greenville Wednesday on a bench warrant, was carried to Spartanburg Thursday morning and the sentence passed upon him last week, which was sealed until the defendant could be captured, was opened and read. He was sentenced to serve 10 years in the penitentiary for striking his mother-in-law in the head with a chair.

Buy Radium Now.

Radium is growing cheaper. Sir Wm. Ramsey in a recent London lecture stated that the present market price is only $2,100,000 an ounce—a drop of $500,000 from the quotation given out by scientists in January last. Now is the time to buy.

Will Vote For Dix.

That H. Young, president of the Republican club of New York up to last year, announced his retirement from the club Wednesday and his intention to support John A. Dix, the Democratic nominee for Governor.

THEY WILL MEET

Capers Issues Call for Republicans in the State to Meet

PARTY OF LILY WHITES

May Be Formed, as the National Committeeman Assures the Republicans and Near Republicans That They Will Be Welcome in the New Party.

The Washington correspondent of The State says John G. Capers, fresh from the Republican gathering in New York on Saturday night, as national committeeman for South Carolina mailed out on Wednesday the following letter to over 100 men in various parts of South Carolina, in the effort to found a new Republican organization in that State:

"Greenville, Oct. 5, 1910. "Dear Sir: It will be established, when the next Republican national convention meets that there is no Republican organization in the State of South Carolina at this time. Any organization, through a State central committee, or a State executive committee, which may have existed, has now ceased to exist and the necessity for party reorganization is apparent."

"There no party organization exists in a newly created State of the Union, or where a party organization has ceased, under the party law, to perform its functions the Republican national committee recognizes what is called the mass meeting plan, for organization or reorganization as the case may be."

"No such organization has existed to improve the personnel of the Republican party in South Carolina since the Philadelphia convention of 1900, at which P. W. McKelvey was renominated without opposition and at that time the opportunity was not taken to do so."

"Under the circumstances, made possible only by recent developments, I feel it my duty, in spite of a strong personal desire to refrain from further political effort, to advise our people of this opportunity to organize in South Carolina a respectable, militant opposition party with some promise for a discussion, hereafter of party issues and questions of government, rather than a continuance of the one party rule which the campaigns are confined solely to a discussion of the merits or demerits of the candidates themselves, frequently accompanied by violent personal attacks of mouth and muscle."

"Therefore, as the member of the national Republican committee for our State, I write you to say that after full consultation with personal friends and due notice you will please cause to be assembled at your place of abode at 12 o'clock Wednesday, October 26, a meeting of men in sympathy of the national Republican party, and from such a meeting elect delegates, and an equal number of alternates (the number allowed your county by law), said delegates to meet in convention at the opera house in the city of Columbia at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, October 27, for the purposes of party reorganization."

"Those in your county who have participated recently in the Democratic primaries, the candidates being for purely local or State offices, are entirely eligible to come as candidates to the convention herein mentioned, if they are in sympathy with the Republican party and its administration of national affairs, all of which are of interest to the whole country and particularly at this time to the South."

"Respectfully yours, "John G. Capers, "South Carolina Member Republican National Committee."

It is understood that the Republican national leaders are interested in this movement and that an effort will be made to build up a white Republican party in South Carolina in time to participate in the campaign of 1912.

RUSSIA IS LEADING

ALL OTHER COUNTRIES IN LEGAL EXECUTIONS.

Prison Congress Advocates Workhouses for Tramps—Suppression of Vagabondage is Urged.

Russia is far behind other civilized countries of the world in the matter of decreasing the number of death sentences, according to statistics given to the international Prison congress at its session Thursday by Dr. Frederick H. Wines, of Philadelphia.

"In no country does the frequency and enormous number of executions excite such horror as in Russia," said Dr. Wines. "Nowhere else is there waged so determined and unceasing war against the employment of capital punishment for the suppression of crime. This is more worthy of remark in view of the fact that the penal code limits the application to political offenders. And yet, in virtue of the system, by which offenses not political can be punished by martial law, even in time of peace, the number of executions is truly extraordinary."

"The official statistics show that in 1908-1909, 2,168 persons were legally executed. So at least, it is stated, in one of the manuscripts placed in my hands. In another, the number of military executions in 24 years from 1874 to 1908 is given as 2,678 of whom 10 per cent. only were in the army; 2,410 of them were civilians; and 2,460 were punished for infraction of the common law."

Dr. Wines gave an interesting report on other countries, but explained that statistics of homicide for the United States were unavailable at present. He declared, however, that in spite of statements to the contrary, there was strong evidence that crime in this country was on the decrease.

Accepting the principle of conditional release on parole as indispensable, the congress approved of these resolutions. The suppression of vagabondage and street begging was advocated as necessary for social preservation. The congress endorsed unanimously the recommendation of Section 2, that tramps should be classified and that a system of identification should be kept by the police of all cities and towns. Work houses for this class were advocated with agriculture as the leading industry.

This is of especial significance to the United States, where the farm colony plan for segregating tramps and burglars and making them work rapidly is becoming an important social question.

BOLL WEEVIL ON THE RUN.

Work of the Experts is Effective in the West.

The following statement of boll weevil dispersion up to September 15, 1910, is made by W. Dwight Pierce, bureau of entomology, United States Government Laboratory, Dallas, Texas:

No work has been done upon the line of infection of Oklahoma. The infested line in Arkansas has fallen back about fifteen miles off the western corner but slightly passes the 1909 line in the vicinity of Little Rock, and from there coincides with the 1909 line until it reaches Lamont, in Bolivar County, in Mississippi. The line runs on a diagonal from Lamont to Lake County, thence to Beale, in Holmes County, thence to Lexington through Salis, in Atlanta County, then turns abruptly south at Plattburg, in Winston County, and then passes three miles east of Newton, in Newton County, halfway between Heidelberg and Stringer, in Jasper County, crosses into Wayne County directly east of Ellenville Junction, and probably leaves the State of Mississippi at Stateline, in Alabama the infestation crosses the Mobile and Ohio Railroad at Fruitdale, in Washington County, turning south passing east of Clontrille to the head of Mobile Bay.

The line is moving so rapidly eastward that even at the present writing it has probably moved twenty or more miles further. A statement of this nature will be issued as soon as possible following the 15th of each month until the dispersion is ended.

REPUDES HEARST'S BARGAIN

To Sell Out the Independence League To Teddy.

A dispatch from New York says contrary to the wishes of Clarence J. Shearn, one of W. R. Hearst's chief lieutenants and fuglemen, the Independence League in session in that city voted early Wednesday morning to put a straight ticket to the field and not to endorse the Republican ticket, as had been proposed. The vote was 212 in favor of a straight ticket, as against 24 for an endorsement of the Republican ticket. It is officially announced that the Independence League will nominate John J. Hopper for Governor, Wm. R. Hearst, for Lieutenant Governor. The common report is that Hearst had promised the support of the Independence League to the ticket put in the field by Roosevelt, but it looks as if the old trust will fail to deliver the goods this time.

TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

DESPERADO, AFTER SHOOTING OFFICERS, SHOTS SELF.

Troops Called Out at Ocala, Fla., to Capture William Summerlin, Who is Harbored in His House.

After fatally wounding Deputy Sheriff Hudson and ex-Sheriff Gordon at his home in the suburbs of Ocala, Fla., William Summerlin placed the muzzle of a Winchester rifle in his mouth and blew his head off.

For three hours Summerlin was barricaded in his house, where he successfully resisted the efforts of the police department and sheriff and sheriff's deputies to arrest him. Firing on every one in sight, it was finally decided by the officers to call out the Ocala Rifles and surround the house.

This was done and shortly after midnight the cordons closed in, the door was broken down and Summerlin's body was found lying on the floor with half his head blown off.

Early in the afternoon Deputy Sheriff Hudson went to Summerlin's home to serve a warrant for some minor offense. Summerlin warned the officer not to come into his yard, and when Hudson started in he was shot down. Ex-Sheriff Gordon, hearing the shot, went to the assistance of Hudson.

While bending over the prostrate form of the deputy, Gordon was shot down, the bullet inflicting a fatal wound. Seeing the two men lying prostrate, Summerlin left the house and secured the rifle carried by Deputy Hudson.

Barricading himself, he offered stubborn resistance to all who attempted his arrest. A large crowd quickly gathered around the house, keeping a safe distance, as Summerlin fired at every one in sight. A guard was thrown up around the house and several volleys were poured into it. Movement was made to capture Summerlin. A rush was made for the door. It was quickly battered in. Inside the body of Summerlin was found weltering in a pool of his own blood. He had placed the muzzle of the rifle in his mouth and fired.

The two wounded officers were hurried to a local hospital, where an examination was made and their condition announced as critical.

COTTON CROP SHORT.

Smaller Than the Crop Made and Gathered Last Year.

According to the figures issued by the census bureau of the cotton ginned this season, which is published on the first page of this issue, it appears that up to September 25 there was a shortage of 265,939 bales, as compared with last year. And last year, it should be remembered, was a short crop year.

The total number of bales ginned this season was 2,762,211, so the shortage is more than one-tenth. If the same ratio should hold good the remainder of the season it would mean that the crop this year will fall short about a million bales below last year's crop.

And this seems to be just about what is to be expected. The last government report on the condition of the growing crop also shows a great deterioration. So, while there is already a shortage of ten per cent. in the cotton picked up to the present, an equal shortage is indicated in the portion of the crop that remains to be picked.

A shortage is reported from all the states except Texas and Tennessee. The Texas crop last year was far below the normal, and even the gains made this year still leave it below an average crop. The shortage in all the other states shows that in yield, compared with last year, they will lose more than Texas gains.

So by the first actual figures, says the Augusta Herald, in regard to the cotton crop the certainty is presented that the yield this year's. This means that cotton will be cotton before this time next year.

Twelve Bodies Found.

For the fifth time since the swamping of the barge of the battleship, when 20 or more of Uncle Sam's sailors lost their lives at New York, the North River began to give up its dead. Twelve bodies, all of which have been identified, were picked up Thursday, nearly all of them within half a mile of the scene of the accident.

CALL FOR HELP

Men More Important than Resources, Says President Barrett

WANTS BETTER SCHOOLS

Government Should Spend from Fifty to One Hundred Millions Each Year to Check the Trend From the Farm to the City by Providing Good Country Schools.

At Atlanta, Ga., in sober business phrases nearly four score delegates, appointed by sixteen Southern Governors, Friday foretold an amazing growth in wealth and population for the South within the next ten years. Representing the agriculture and business interests of every section of Dixie, these delegates gathered to assist the executive committee of the Southern Commercial Congress work out a non-political and disinterested plan for promoting development of the South's millions of unemployed acres and its vast unused water powers, the enlargement of its business and industry, both by its own inhabitants and through judicious advertising of its resources through out America and Europe.

As the representative of more than two million farmers, Charles S. Barrett, president of the Farmers' Union, stressed the necessity of conserving men first, rather than the resources of the soil. "If you conserve the nation's men, you will meet disaster and ultimate defeat in your undertaking," he said. "The nation has not been conserving the farmer, the man who is a greater asset than all your powers, coal lands, forests or gold mines."

"A corterie of really patriotic Americans is trying to head off the efforts of the Morgan-Guggenheim interests to bottle up, or 'hog' the coal and gold of Alaska. They have succeeded in rousing a nation to their assistance. We have had the menace of Ballingerism placarded from one end of America to the other. We have been warned in trumpet tones, of the encroaching water power interests which may, in the long run, absorb all the water power of the country and in the end become the king of all the other trusts. We have been told of the penalty of giving over our forests to greedy timber interests. We have been shown what will happen if we do not checkmate the money lust of the coal, the gold and the timber barons."

"This is all worthy, this is all admirable. But while we battle against these foes of the Republic, we leave to his own devices the man whose vital function it is to feed and largely to clothe this nation, the man whose combined product yield a greater annual value than our mines or forests or water powers, the man whose problems will be more than ever the nation's problems when the earth shall have been stripped of its coal and gold."

He said the Government should spend fifty to one hundred million dollars annually to check the trend from the farm to the city by improving common school and scientific agricultural educational facilities in every country, in easy reach of the farmers' children. He would provide against "the contamination of the corrupt alien strains that sow seeds of unrest and disintegration that may ripen into a ruinous harvest."

Mr. Barrett stressed the necessity of keeping a perpetual watch upon our national and State Legislatures. "The battle for conservation is not here in this auditorium. It comes in the elections of November. It comes after that in the halls of Congress. It comes two years hence in the selection of a president and a Congress that are committed to the public and not the private welfare. And then it comes year after year, for conservation is so big a war that it probably will not be ended until your children and mine stand in our places."

Mr. Barrett paid a warm tribute to Clifford Pinchot to whose "unselish public spirit, patience under humiliation and untiring zeal," he attributed the present advancement to the cause of conservation. "I am confident," he said, "that when the verdict of history is written his name will stand high among the names of the men who have wrought for the salvation of our common country."

BEEN STOPPED WORK.

Seventy-five Hives Were in Wreck of Freight Train.

Seventy-five hives of infuriated bees played an important part in delaying traffic at Brush, Col., on the Burlington Railroad Tuesday following a collision between two freight trains in which twenty freight cars were destroyed and a large quantity of merchandise damaged. The bees were in a car of household stuff. They kept the wrecking crew at bay for several hours before they were smoked out. S. D. Nelson, of Upland, Neb., the owner of the bees, who was traveling in the car with his goods, suffered the only injuries resulting from the wreck. He was severely stung before he could make his way out of the car.
